Four Scale 25-Foot Wall, Flee O. S. R.

SEEN AT LUCAS, ENTER STORE IN MILLERSBURG

Quartet Uses Improvised Rope To Break From Prison While Guard Shift Changes.

SURPRISED BY SHERIFF

Holmes Sheriff Fires at Them While They Attempt to Open Feed Store Safe.

Four inmates went over the wall at the Ohio state reformatory last night during a change of guards, stole an automobile at Lucas and then eluded capture amid gunfire when surprised while burglarizing a Millersburg feed store.

Their escape shrouded by a heavy fog, the prisoners crawled to the roof of the dining hall shortly after 9 p. m. and with an improvised rope ladder slid 25 feet to the ground, Supt. Arthur L. Glattke reported this morning.

The rope, Glattke said, was fashioned from pieces of cloth and bits of rope smuggled from various parts of the institution.

Apparently making their way across fields, they took a parked automobile owned by Frank Martin at Lucas and drove to Millersburg where they were surprised by Holmes County Sheriff Harry Weiss while burglarizing the Sunshine feed store.

Weiss was called by a resident near the store who was awakened by the intruders. He discovered the automobile outside the building and took the keys from the car.

As he entered the building, the quartet working at the safe, started to run and the sheriff fired his riot gun at one of the inmates as he leaped through a second story window and dropped 15 feet to the ground.

Weiss said he believed that he had hit the prisoner. The other

Bullet Dodging Fugitive Found Scared In Coma

ST. CLAIRSVILLE—(U P)—Captured by a posse of 100 peace officers and citizens armed with rifles, Russell Gibbons, 33-year-old fugitive from London state prison farm, was held today in the Belmont county jail.

Gibbons was cornered yesterday near Malaga, about 20 miles southwest of here, and he took refuge in a rock pile. Possemen fired several shots and then found Gibbons unconscious but unwounded.

Deputy Wayne Street said the fugitive escaped from the prison farm last June while serving a sentence from Belmont county for theft.

WOMAN, 65, FINED

Found Guilty of Driving Auto 80 Miles an Hour Near Ashland.

A 65-year-old Dayton woman was arrested by state highway patrolman on route 42 yesterday while she was driving her automobile at 80 miles an hour, officers said.

The woman, Mrs. Lenora B. Drayer, was fined $5 and costs when she was arraigned and found guilty in the court of Justice of Peace R. R. Teeters at Ashland.

Holiday Toll Starts, One Dead In Area

Detroit Driver Killed As Auto, Truck Crash; One Hurt Here.

One man was dead and another injured today in the first holiday week-end traffic accidents in the Richland county area.

Fred D. Healy, 33, of Detroit died in Ashland Samaritan hospital late yesterday of injuries received in an automobile collision eight miles north of Ashland on route 42.

Joe Schuster, 230 Park avenue east, Mansfield was injured in another accident.

According to highway patrolmen, the wheels of Healy's car caught in the soft berm at the side of the road and when he attempted to pull back on the road his car skidded, striking an oncoming truck broadside.

The truck was driven by William J. Mussi, 26, of Syracuse, N. Y., who was uninjured.

Rushed to Hospital.

Healy was rushed immediately to Samaritan hospital, where he was treated for a fractured skull and multiple cuts about the body. Healy died a few minutes after arriving at the hospital.

Highway patrolmen said that no one was held after they had completed preliminary questioning. Healy's car was a total loss, while the truck was only slightly damaged.

According to Mansfield police, Schuster was taken to General hospital, when he attempted to cross Park avenue east near Foster street at 9 p. m. yesterday and was hit by an automobile. He was treated at General hospital for head and shoulder injuries.

Schuster was struck down by a car driven by Holford Martin, R. D. 1, Lucas, police said.

With holiday drivers already clogging the highways today, Highway patrolmen cautioned motorists to use "utmost care" while operating their vehicles on the public highways.

Because of the good weather and the long week-end, patrolmen expect that the week-end toll of injuries and deaths to be unusually high.

FARLEY QUITS

Postmaster General Leaves New Deal Cabinet.

WASHINGTON —(U P)— James A. Farley of New York, President Roosevelt's campaign manager in 1932 and 1936 who declined the job for 1940, leaves the New Deal cabinet today claiming to be the first postmaster general to make the mails pay costs.

Farley, during his service, never submitted an expense account for government travel. He used a railroad pass given high postal officials. All other expenses, he paid out of his own pocket.

Farley leaves the cabinet to enter private business. He will start shortly as chairman of the Coca Cola export corporation and as president of the New York Yankees baseball club.

Frank C. Walker, of New York, is expected to succeed the former Democratic national chairman as postmaster general.

CITY TO HAVE BUSY WEEK-END

No Labor Day Observance On But Mansfield Will Be Host to Hundreds.

While Mansfield labor organizations have scheduled no city-wide Labor day observance, the city was preparing today for a busy week-end, entertaining an estimated 1,300 guests and delegates at a reunion and convention.

Approximately 800 of them are expected here tonight for the opening of the 37th Division, A. E. F., reunion which will continue through Monday morning.

It is estimated that another 500 members of Christ's Ambassadors, a religious group, will be here Sunday and Monday for their annual state convention at the Glad Tidings Tabernacle.

The city's lone Labor day parade will be sponsored by the Truck Drivers' Local Union No. 40. Seventy trucks will participate in the parade through the business district, starting at about 11 a. m. Monday.

The Richland county CIO council today announced that it is sponsoring a program at Central park beginning with a band concert at 2 p. m. E. E. Kennedy, of Washington, D. C., a representative of the Farmers Guild will give an address. Arrangements have been made to install equip-

BIG JUDGMENT

$2,464,928 Awarded by Court In Estate Management.

CLEVELAND—(U P)—A $2,464,928 judgment—one of the largest ever awarded in Cuyahoga county common pleas court—today was on record for Douglas F. Schofield, Cleveland.

Judge Joy Seth Hurd made the award in a breach of trust suit against Schofield's uncle, Sherman W. Scofield, over the management of an estate.

She Can't Cook, Plow, Milk, but She's Champion

BEL AIR, Md. —(AP)— Being Harford county's "prettiest farm girl" doesn't faze 18-year-old Myrtle Greer. Myrtle cheerfully admits that:

She can't milk.

She can't plow.

She can't cook—unless you like fudge as a steady diet.

"Girls on the farm these days aren't supposed to do farm work," she grinned yesterday, after she was selected to represent her county in the state "farm girl" beauty contest tomorrow.

HITS GAMBLING

Cuyahoga Grand Jury Wants Clubs Closed Down.

CLEVELAND—(AP)—A Cuyahoga county grand jury recommends that the prosecutor organize an anti-racketeering department in a report stating that big-time gambling clubs in Cleveland suburbs are "helping fill our penal institutions, orphanages, asylums and cemeteries."

The jury added the "sheriff could close these clubs in 24 hours if he would simply follow his sworn duty," declaring the clubs "have operated for years illegally and without interference and extract millions each year from the people."

Sheriff Martin L. O'Donnell, who has operated what he terms a "homerule" policy of non-interference with suburban affairs, was reported "unavaliable" for comment.

SALES INCREASE

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Department store sales in the Cleveland federal reserve district for the week ended Aug. 24 were 15 per cent ahead of the corresponding 1939 period.

VETS START TO ARRIVE IN CITY

State Officers First to Come To City For 3-Day Reunion Of 37th Division.

Veterans of the 37th Division, A. E. F. began to arrive in Mansfield this morning for the first day of the three-day reunion to be held here this week-end. State officers arrived last night and were at headquarters in the Leland hotel this morning going over details of the program.

Among the first to arrive were Harold Snell and Mrs. Frank Simlik, both of Youngstown, president of the veterans association and the women's auxiliary, respectively. James Stearns, Columbus, executive secretary, was also here this morning.

An interesting phase of the first arrivals of these veteran guardsmen who were in the World war, was that they came in about the same time as the new crop of 37th Division guardsmen arrived home from their army maneuvers at Sparta, Wis.

There are welcoming banners on the hotel marque and placards in down town store windows and restaurants. About 800 are expected for the event, according to Capt. A. L. Allen, of Mansfield, director of activities.

An unexpected and distinguished guest will be here tomorrow eve-

HOUSE DRAFT FOES ATTACK SIDE ISSUES

Lack Strength to Vote Defeat Of Conscription Plan Next Week.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON — Various sections of the Burke-Wadsworth military training bill aroused scattered opposition in the house today, but all critics apparently agreed that even a combination of their forces would not defeat the legislation next week.

As preparations to start debate Tuesday went on behind the scenes, informed members predicted that the principal fights would develop over two provisions.

1. That fixing 21 to 44, inclusive as the age range of men who would register and be subject to conscription.

2. That giving the government power to take over industrial plants for defense purposes.

The draft of the bill approved by the house military committee contains the 21-44 age range, but several representatives said they would seek to reduce the spread to 21 to 30, inclusive, the age limits voted by the senate when it passed the bill this week. On the other hand, Rep. Thompson (D-Tex) advocated registration of all men 18 to 64, inclusive, though only those 21 to 44 would be subject to the draft.

Representatives Smith (D-Conn) and Brooks (D-La) planned a counter proposition to authorize the government to take over defense plants only on a rental or lease basis. They said this would prevent the accumulation of too much industrial machinery in government hands.

In addition to these two major issues, other questions which figured considerably in informal discussions of members were:

Whether the legislation should provide only for the "training" of men called up or whether the provision "training and service" should be permitted to stand.

Whether the senate limitation of 900,000 on the number of land force trainees in service at any one time should be increased to 1,000,000—as recommended by the house committee—to provide an allocation for the navy as well.

Whether there should be safeguards to make certain that proper authority to handle all conceivable situations was vested in proposed local draft boards.

SHIPS COLLIDE

New Jersey Coast Fog Bank Causes Accident.

NEW YORK —(AP)— The SS Seatrain Texas, a new $2,500,000 American freighter, and the Norwegian freighter Rolf Jarl collided in a fog off the New Jersey coast early today, Mackay radio reported, but both apparently were not in serious trouble.

Four hours after the Seatrain Texas sent an SOS call reporting she had struck an "unknown ship," the 1,917-ton Norwegian vessel sent a message to the Texas intercepted by Mackay, which said:

"We will try proceed for Five Fatham Bank (a lightship off Cape May) daybreak. Please stand by until further notice."

The Seatrain Texas earlier had reported she was in "no need of assistance."

BOMB NEW YORK

Curdled Milk of Frightened Cows Only Damage.

LONDON —(U P)— A German raider bombed New York yesterday. It was the village of New York in Northumberland, too small to be listed in gazeteers.

The raider dropped incendiary bombs on a cow shed, causing considerable wounded feelings among the cows and some curdling of milk. The cows emerged unhurt.

London Shaken By Third Raid In Five Hours

Warring Nations Trade Heavy Blows at Enemy Capitals; Shell Drops Near Hitler Chancellery; Aerial Battles Over Channel.

By PIERRE J. HUSS
(INS Staff Correspondent)

BERLIN — British bombs crashed in the center of Berlin during a prolonged raid by waves of Royal Air Force planes today, one missile crashing into the Berlin fire department headquarters only a few blocks from Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler's chancellery in the Wilhelmstrasse.

This bomb smashed the building's windows and shattered its concrete floor, but no other structures which could be termed military objectives suffered in the attack. Residential areas suffered most of the damage.

It was the second bombing raid Berlin has experienced since the war began. The air raid alarm sounded at 1:40 a. m. (6:40 p. m. Friday EST) and the all clear signal at 3:15 a. m. (8:15 p. m. Friday EST.)

Authorities charged that low-flying British raiders machine-gunned the streets.

The British raiders dropped bombs on almost the same southeastern section of the capital that was hit in the raid on Thursday morning, when bombs fell on Kottbusser-Strasse.

As the bombs fell, flames and smoke cast a red glow on the night sky.

German officials said the bombers showed a lack of good aim but nevertheless got closer to military objectives and caused some minor damage to the city.

BULLETIN

LONDON — (INS) — German raiding planes which machine-gunned women shoppers in the streets and peppered civilian motor traffic on the roads lashed out at the London area in three separate attacks today but were driven off by Royal Air Force fighters and anti-aircraft guns.

(By Associated Press)

LONDON—German air raiders dropped bombs in the London area this afternoon when the third of their fierce daylight thrusts carried through the capital's defenses.

With the brilliant early afternoon sun at their tails, the attackers executed a lightning assault which left an undetermined number of casualties in a suburban town at the height of Saturday shopping.

Men, women and children scattered to shelter.

Two earlier attempts to breach London's screen of anti-aircraft fire, barrage balloons and fighter plane patrols were reported to have been beaten back, with several planes downed on the southeast coast and over the channel.

Five Messerschmitt fighters attacked Dover's balloon barrages with aerial cannon and machine-guns and got away. As fast as the balloons were brought down, they were patched up or replaced.

Great aerial battles were fought over the southeast coast and the channel.

DEFENSE?: Nazis Get Tank And Air Bases In Rumania

(By Associated Press)

BUCHAREST—The establishment of German air bases and headquarters for Nazi tank corps and motorized units on Rumanian soil was reported by government circles today to have been agreed upon at the Vienna conference yesterday which gave half of Rumania's Transylvania to Hungary.

German planes and soldiers had not put in an appearance in Rumania today, although the Rumanian general staff began demobilization of most of the Balkan kingdom's 1,300,000 men under arms.

Other plans were being rushed to vacate the northern Transylvania area, ceded to Hungary by the Axis powers in an arbitration award. This must be completed in 15 days.

The Rumanian crown council conferred until early morning on "new problems of exceptional importance."

Police guarded the council's palace session with sawed-off shotguns as official quarters, aside from the reference to important

VICTORY: Lord Lothian Says Britain Battle Already Won

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—Lord Lothian, British ambassador to the United States, declared today that "the battle of Britain is won."

In an informal talk with newspapermen, he explained that he meant that Adolf Hitler's bombers, despite their attacks in waves of hundreds, definitely had been unable to smash British air power to pave the way for an invasion this fall.

"Germany has only a fortnight more in which to invade us," the ambassador said. "Then it will be too late."

By that he meant that the stormy waters of the English channel, shrouded in fog after about Sept. 15, would become an almost impassable moat for an army of invasion.

Meanwhile, Lord Lothian said, British bombers have been attacking German military and industrial centers almost nightly in waves of 150 or more. These raids, he said, have not been publicized to the extent of the Nazi bombing attacks on Great Britain, but they

PLOT: Dominican Newspaper Charges Hitler Agents Busy

(By United Press)

SAN JUAN, Puerto Rico—The newspaper El Mundo charged today that Adolf Hitler's agents in the Dominican republic were conspiring against "the sovereignty and liberty" of the Americas and inspecting bases that might endanger the United States defense of the Panama canal.

The newspaper charges were based on a dispatch by Samuel E. Badillo, who had been assigned to investigate German activities in the Dominican republic.

"In the heart of the new world, equal distance from the chief strategic centers of North and South America, the third reich has been conspiring with the same tactics used to subjugate weak European countries against the sovereignty and liberty of this hemisphere," the dispatch said.

"The center of conspiracy and the center of Hitler's plans to conquer America is the Dominican republic, which is the line of defense which the United States is constructing to defend the Panama canal, extending from Guantanamo (Cuba) to Bermuda and centering at Puerto Rico."

Sunday's N-J Big Part of Holiday Week-End

WHETHER you're going away for the Labor day week-end or planning to take it easy around home and possibly see those friends you've been planning to call on for so long, there's one thing that will put just the proper "edge" on your experiences.

That's the Sunday edition of The News-Journal. And here's why:

Lafayette, They Are Here.

We mean the 37th Division A. E. F. whose members are holding their reunion in Mansfield. You'll find pictures of the boys who helped stem the German onrush in 1918 and complete coverage of their activities.

There'll be up-to-the-minute war news from "across the pond," as the boys used to put it, and a special article by Morgan Beatty, Associated Press writer, who believes that the air war will not really begin until one side or the other begins using thermite bombs. Beatty tells you what these bombs are.

Following its regular holiday publication custom, The News-Journal on Monday, Labor day, will be issued in the morning and delivered to homes of subscribers before noon.

After 100 Years.

The Ohio Dental society is observing its 100th anniversary this year and a Mansfielder is president-elect of the association. Tomorrow's edition brings you excerpts from the history of dentistry in the city and a picture of the building in which dental education began in Ohio.

Four other rare old-time photographs are reproduced in the "Do You Remember" series. They present scenes from the funeral of John Sherman when President McKinley was among the thousands of mourners thronging Mansfield streets.

Speech Without Hearing.

Another illustrated story tells you how a young Mansfield woman who has never heard a sound has learned to talk and understand her husband and friends when they speak.

The week is rounded in cartoon. Another city farmer is presented in words and photographs. Fiction, a puzzle, colored comics, society, news, sports events and a story of the draft in the days of the Civil war come to you in pages crowded with interest.

Airplane Engine Order Eliminates Defense Bottleneck

CONTRACTS ON 40,000 MOTORS ALREADY LET

Total Believed Adequate For 25,000 Planes Within Next Two Years.

(By Associated Press)

WASHINGTON—Newly placed orders for airplane engines—once called the bottleneck of the defense program—today brought prospects for engine production abreast of the army-navy goal of a 25,000-plane fleet in the next two years.

With new plant facilities already under construction and output steadily increasing, a survey of contracts showed that upwards of 40,000 motors for all types of planes have been ordered for delivery by mid-1942.

At the rate of 1½ engines per plane, figuring in multiple-motored craft. Experts estimated that this total would be more than adequate for the goal of 25,000 planes of all types which defense officials have set for themselves by that time.

Other defense developments included disclosure by army officials of a plan for spreading strategic defense industries over five inland areas comprising roughly all those sections of the country 200 to 250 miles or more away from coasts or international boundaries.

And, Secretary Stimson sought to avoid conflict of interests between manpower and industrial production needs by requesting release from the national guard of all officers and men holding key positions in defense industries. The national guard bureau said the secretary, preparing for expected mobilization of the guard next month, had sent the request to commanding officers in every state.

The two largest engine contracts let so far were made public by the army and navy this week. They call for the manufacture of 20,000 Wright motors by the Wright Aeronautical corporation and 17,000 Pratt and Whitney motors by United Aircraft corporation.

Previously 3,000 Rolls-Royce motors had been ordered from the Packard Motor company—which also agreed to produce 6,000 for Great Britain—and arrangements were made with General Motors corporation to produce Allison aircraft engines.

All these contracts, and probably others yet to come, foreshadow a huge expansion of manufacturing facilities. In construction of new plants emphasis is expected to be placed on inland locations in line with the policy, disclosed yesteday, of avoiding vulnerable plant concentrations and obtaining maximum safety from air attack.

Blame Rain for Slight Deficit For State Fair

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Receipts from the 90th Ohio state fair approached the $100,000 mark despite frequent rains during the seven-day show.

Manager Win Kinnan reported the income at $92,352.81, short of last year's total by $7,848.74. Paid attendance was 229,451 compared with 259,448 in 1939.

"Considering all the bad weather, I am pretty happy about the receipts," Kinnan said at the close of the fair last night.

John T. Brown, director of agriculture, predicted there would be no large deficit.

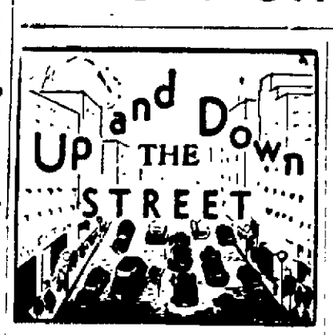
Red Petitions Checked Against WPA Lists



A copy of the famous Ulster County Gazette, the paper that reported the funeral of George Washington, is owned by Mrs. H. A. Brothers, 35 Vennum avenue, who is attempting to learn if she has one of the originals. Original copies of the tiny four-page sheet published at Kingston, N. Y., are rare, but a number of imitations were issued several years later and distributed as souvenirs. The paper contains a report of the French-Austro-Russian war, but news was more than three months old then by the time it reached the United States by boat.

Those badges that are being worn by veterans here for the 37th Division reunion, bear the division insignia, from which it got its nickname of the "fried egg division." The insignia actually represents a buckeye for Ohio, but the buckeye looks exactly like a fried egg, with its round "yolk" on a white circle. The soldiers wore these on the sleeves of their uniforms and they were on all equipment of the 37th.

Anyone who has the misfortune to be arrested over the week-end for a traffic violation and needs sympathy, Carlton Fernyak is your man. Early this week Fernyak was traveling in the northern part of the state and was picked up in a little town for some trifling infraction of the local traffic laws. Taken into court, he and a justice of peace talked things over and decided that $9 and costs would be a fair settlement. When Fernyak dug down into his wallet for the fine, the justice saw that Fernyak had considerably more than the $9 and tried to "up" the penalty. Fernyak is still fuming but he paid only the $9.

CONSERVANCY TAX UNCHANGED

Judge Sets Four-Tenths of A Mill as Collection Rate For 1941 Tax Year.

A tax rate of four-tenths of a mill for 1941 for the Mansfield Conservancy district had been approved today by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston.

Unchanged from the 1940 rate, the 1941 levy, however, is less than half the one-mill collected six years ago when the district was set up.

The same rate was retained for next year on the recommendation of the Conservancy board which said it will require four-tenths of a mill levy to produce enough to retire bonds, pay interest, and finance the collection of the tax.

Conservancy figures show there is still $74,000 outstanding in bonds issued by the district, and it was predicted that the last of them will be paid out in 1943.

Bonds totaling $165,000 were issued when the district was created in 1934. A part of the money was used to finance a survey of the Mansfield area for a flood-control project that never materialized.

The Conservancy board is now considering a dredging project for Rocky Fork creek through the northern part of the city to alleviate flood conditions in that section. The project, however, will be financed from a source other than the present conservancy tax levy.

SIR GEORGE PLANS RETURN TO LONDON AS SOON AS POSSIBLE

NEW YORK —(INS)— Sir George Paish, British economist, will return to London as soon as possible, he indicated today after word was brought to him from Washington that the British embassy believed that he should return home in the interests of Anglo-American relations.

The suggestion that Sir George return home was made by the Marquess of Lothian, British ambassador, as an aftermath of the criticism levelled at Sir George by Senator Burton K. Wheeler of Montana. Senator Wheeler said that Sir George had told him that he was responsible for getting the United States into the first World war and that he intended to get this country into the present one.

"I came here to promote harmony between America and Great Britain," Sir George said, "and if harmony can best be promoted by my return to England, I will go. If there is harm in my staying I don't want to stay. The more I try to justify myself the more I seem to have to explain."

Sir George revealed that Lord Lothian had talked to him a week ago and told him not to give out any further interviews, and "rather suggested that I return to England."

Sir George had planned to remain in this country for nine months and make a lecture tour.

BRICKER URGES NEWSPAPER TO PUBLISH NAMES

BULLETIN

COLUMBUS —(INS)— Possibility that county prosecutors may be asked to take action against persons who allegedly misrepresented nominating petitions to obtain signatures for a Communist slate of candidates was intimated today by Secretary of State George Neffner.

(By Associated Press)

COLUMBUS — A state-wide investigation to determine how many WPA workers signed petitions to qualify Communist party candidates for the November election loomed today in the wake of Gov. John W. Bricker's denunciation of the manner in which many signatures were obtained.

District Manager J. L. Kelly reported that a check of petition signatures published here disclosed the names of 21 Franklin WPA workers. He said the lists would be checked against WPA rolls in all 20 counties of the district.

Arbitrary dismissals will not be made until cause for such action is warranted by the investigation," Kelly said.

Officials at Ohio WPA headquarters indicated that similar inquiries would be conducted throughout the state in the districts where newspapers published the names of signers.

WPA workers recently signed affidavits disclaiming membership in the Communist party or Nazi Bund as an employment requirement.

Governor Bricker told Ohio newspapermen meeting on the Ohio State fairgrounds yesterday that petition circulators "preyed" on ignorant people, misled them and lied to them" to obtain signatures.

"Any organization that would tear down the structure of our government," the governor said, "has no right to be called a political party and go before the people of our country on a ballot.

"People have been coming in by the scores in the past few days asking that their names be taken off the petitions. They have been promised high wages, trips and everything under the heavens to get their signatures.

"I wish that you would see to it that the names of those from your counties who signed the petitions are published back home, so that your neighbors can see who would tear down our government."

The petitions have been filed with Secretary of State George Heffner, who said statements of protesting signers would be held until Sept. 6, final date for filing, before action was taken.

Walter Underwood, deputy clerk of the Richland county board of elections, said today that he knew of no Communist party petitions being sent to Columbus from the county or of any being circulated in the county.

Not That It Matters

City Father In Quandary On Levy--It Ought to Be Passed, but Will It Be?

—By JANE WILLIAMS

CITY fathers are between a dither and a flurry on the proposed one mill tax levy which probably will come before voters on the November ballot. And well they may be. It's one of those omnibus things that has more different ingredients than vegetable hash.

Although it is designed to finance five separate city needs, it can't carry all of them in one levy unless it is labeled merely "general operating fund."

If it does bear that label, even its most optimistic proponents admit it is likely to be defeated. But on the other hand if five separate levys are placed on the ballot, they think all of them would go down to defeat. So what to do.

JUST between ourselves I think the City Papas are guessing wrong on that last. If the issues are presented separately, some of them would go down to certain defeat, but at least some of them would have a chance of passing. I think a levy for additional police and firemen would pass. Even the stay-at-homes must begin to see that Mansfield has entirely outgrown its police and fire fighting staffs.

The parks levy might pass, but quite probably the playground and airport levies would fail; not because they aren't worthwhile, but because in these days of fantastic defense costs voters are turning thumbs down on everything that isn't actual necessities.

If all of these are lumped together in a "general operating fund," they might conceivably pass, but the chances are all against it. One of the big drawbacks is that in this form the levy is not definitely earmarked for any special purpose, and while this administration might divide it among the five agencies, there would be nothing to prevent succeeding councils from changing its uses entirely.

Wouldn't it be better to put them squarely before voters, each on its own merit, with a chance for the most popular to survive, rather than all go down to defeat?

SOME idea of how easy it is to start a war any time, any place, may be glimpsed in two of the resolutions that were introduced to the American Legion convention in Toledo last week by a Legion post of the state. One was to cancel the cash and carry phase of the neutrality bill, and the other was to jump into the war immediately with "all possible aid to Great Britain" without cost. I presume the "all possible aid" meant men as well as materials.

Fortunately there were enough level heads in the Legion to table so irresponsible a resolution. But it shows that we are not all of one opinion in America on staying out of the war.

A defense program doesn't mean all ships and plans and men. If may mean such simple things as trying to ferret out the enemies of your country as they may exist in your home town.

Steps are being taken in Cincinnati, Columbus and Cleveland to publish the names of known Communists, who certainly are enemies of the Amercian form of government. Ohio has frequently had the Communist party on its ballot, submitting candidates to operate the state. Of course they weren't elected, but there were persons who voted for them. Hundreds of them signed petitions for this year's candidates, according to the office of the secretary of state.

It would be very interesting to see the list just to see what kind of citizens have adopted a political faith that advocates the overthrow of the present form of American government.

HEARD this week that some one brought up again the question of doing away with Central park in order to speed up traffic.

Please, do we have to go over all that again? De we have to start that battle, what with a fall campaign coming on? Let's declare a moratorium on the subject until next spring—and then the park will be so young and lovely that no voice will dare be raised against it.

LEAVING late this afternoon for the annual surcease from deadlines and telephone calls. The Head of The Williams Tribe, the Harold McKinleys of Cleveland (formerly of Mansfield) and your Main Street correspondent are leaving for Robbinsville, N. C. where we'll rest high in the Great Smokies, 25 miles from the nearest picture show, bank and newspaper.

There will be fishing, swimming for those sturdy souls who can stand the biting cold of mountain waters, trips to two national parks and Indian Reservations, and overnight camps up in the mountains. If the mercury isn't too high in the little glass tubes we'll go down to old Charleston and drive back north along the coast of the Carolinas and Virginia.

Only two pieces of news can induce me to listen to war news over the radio while we're gone—a clash between Germany and Russia in Rumania, or anything else that would be really bad news for Mr. Hitler.

The old column, like a horsehair sofa, will be in its accustomed place next Saturday, barring high water and hurricanes.

BOMB DROPPED NEAR HITLER'S CHANCELLERY

Berlin Has Second Air Raid, Charges British Used Machine Guns.

of 12,000 feet exploded with loud detonations. They looked sinister as they fell, outlined by the beams of defense searchlights.

German authorities said they had caused no vital damage to Berlin, except to rob Berliners of their sleep.

An official communique stated:

"Several enemy planes passed over Berlin and dropped numerous incendiary and high explosive bombs on the inner city, causing attic fires in residential and public buildings.

"The planes did not attack military objectives. Three civilians were seriously injured and three were slightly hurt.

"One bomb hit the Neukoelin hospital and an adjacent church."

The attacking bombers came over in waves at about 20-minute intervals, flying under a star-lit sky at tremendous altitudes. Searchlight batteries busily stabbed the blackness, searching for the raiders.

About 10 minutes before the alarm sounded, the approaching planes dropped a few flares. Violent anti-aircraft fire broke out at once some distance west of Berlin.

As the raiders came closer the ground batteries increased their barrages. The planes were then still invisible, but watchers in Berlin saw parachute flares drop from time to time.

The anti-aircraft fire was heaviest to the west and northwest of the capital.

Italian Bomber Says He's Sorry

ROME — (INS) — A report that American missionaries were killed when an Italian plane bombed Doro in the Sudan brought this reply today from an authoritative Italian source:

"We are not in the habit of sending planes to kill missionaries.

"If by mistake American missionaries were killed by an Italian plane in the Sudan, the first person to be sorry is the aviator who did it."

(Editor's note: In New York, the Sudan interior mission announced reception of confirmatory messages that two of their missionaries had been killed and two others wounded during the bombing of Doro. Those killed were listed as Dr. and Mrs. Robert Grieve of Spokane, Wash., and the wounded as Rev. and Mrs. Kenneth Oglesby of Sedalia, Mo.)

problems, declined to disclose the new issues facing King Carol and his advisers.

Transylvania's church bells clanged an incessant dirge of protest against the new cession.

All Bucharest theaters, movies and night clubs were ordered closed for an indefinite period of national mourning, and music was forbidden in restaurants.

Unreconciled Rumanians formed "defense corps" in parts of Transylvania, and from the province capital, Cluj, came a petition bearing thousands of signatures lauding Juliu Maniu, Rumania peasant party leader, for his opposition to the cession and calling "traitors" those who agreed to it.

Despite the concern in Bucharest over the danger of disturbances among the mixed populations of Transylvania before the transfer of authority is completed, there were no reports of any incidents.

More than 1,000,000 Rumanian peasants, however, were declared still to be unaware of the swift drama of power politics which decreed their return to Hungarian rule after 22 years in greater Rumania.

Among those who learned the news, reaction was immediate.

Tens of thousands of Rumanian public employes, judges, army officers and politicians, with their families, began an exodus last night from northern Transylvania, which soon will be Hungarian property again.

They headed toward old Rumania by train, automobile, river boat and even in horse-carts heaped high with personal belongings.

CITY TO HAVE BUSY WEEK-END

ment for the radio broadcast of an address by John L. Lewis.

Hundreds of Mansfielders were planning an exodus today to Lake Erie resorts or to the homes of relatives in distant cities, while scores of homes in the city were ready to entertain guests from out of town over the double holiday.

The weatherman promised fair and slightly cooler weather for Sunday, but he wouldn't venture a forecast as far ahead as Monday.

Anticipating heavy travel on highways in this area over the holiday, city and county authorities and state highway patrolmen urged motorists to drive carefully, and to take special precaution if rain should make highways slippery.

While the holiday observance in Mansfield will be comparatively quiet so far as labor is concerned, the Congress of Industrial Organizations will sponsor the first Labor day parade in Cleveland since 1916. It was said one aim of the demonstration will be to build union chances for organization in the face of problems created by the national defense program.

Other big celebrations are scheduled for Warren and Toledo where both the A. F. of L. and C. I. O. organizations will stage parades.

Books For Children

(Available at Mansfield Public Library)

Loyalty to one's own country is something everyone is concerned with now, but it is a time to appreciate another's loyalty as much as our own. Both of the countries in these new children's books have lost their identity since the books were written, but the stories are none the less interesting.

THE CUCKOO CALLS, by Nora Burglon — The direction from which the first spring call of the cuckoo is heard in Finland foretells the good or bad fortune of the listener. For the twins in this book the sign was a good one. The collection they made for their museum grew and grew but it was almost lost by the hatred which grew among their parents. Solving the mystery of their lost dagger, however, cleared up that hatred.

LAND FROM THE SEA, by Edna Potter — The land which Holland developed from the sea by drainage was won in a peaceful manner. This story shows to the younger readers how the children who watched this process loved their land as well as their sea. Dirk could hardly decide whether to be a farmer or a fisherman.

have been most effective in destroying German production centers.

British preparations for a mass German invasion, the ambassador added, are becoming stronger with each day that passes.

At the present time, he said, Great Britain has more than 1,500,000 men under arms. He estimated that the most Germany could hope to land, even if defenses of the English channel fleet and air corps were overcome, would be 200,000 or 300,000, and that they would be faced with an army many times their size.

"Some of us are even tempted to hope, at times," Lothian said with a laugh, "that they will try it."

The ambassador expressed the opinion that the German troops tied up in the French and Belgian areas of occupation were becoming restless and bored, resulting in a declining morale.

If the Germans do not invade now, he said, and the war is carried out until next spring, Hitler's troops will find themselves facing an enemy far stronger than now.

Lothian, who talked with newspapermen following a call on Secretary of State Cordell Hull, declined to discuss the current negotiations for the acquisition by the United States of British naval bases.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, September 1.

SUNDAY'S horoscope is an excellent one for religious, mystical, humanitarian and kindred pursuits, with the prospect of romance, social adventure and attachments of an unconventional or irregular aspect having full swing. But it is likely that this may bring grief, calamity or regret if not discreetly handled.

Those whose birthday it is may have an exciting and dramatic year, with many peculiar or intriguing adventures, gainful and benefic if managed with discretion, but perilous and devastating if rushed into precipitately and rashly. Social and romantic activities may be paramount to business or ordinary interests.

A child born on this day may be active and dynamic, possibly in some unusual or spectacular way. It should be original, ingenious, artistic and genial.

For Monday, September 2.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is for splendid opportunity for progress and prosperity, with high aims and aspirations attaining lofty goals by the use of greatly stimulated forces and faculties. It is a time for dynamic action and expansive purpose, with all contributing to eminent success and satisfaction, but be discreet with all writings and documents.

Those whose birthday it is are on the threshold of a year of high fulfillments, with great ambitions and worthy aspirations attained by splendid energies and initiative as well as sound plans, executive ability and solid support from those in exalted positions. It is a time for pushing with vigor and logic, but with precaution as to litigation and complications through papers or writings.

A child born on this day may be opulent, expansive, generous and great spirited for public welfare, although egotistic, bombastic and self-centered. However, it should attain popularity and high personal prestige, and perhaps public acclaim or trust.

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, AUGUST 31, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow and Monday—the double holiday will bring extra highway hazards.

Now that both of the vice presidential nominees have been notified, the uncertainty is about over.

It now appears that a local pipe smoker was not greatly disturbed about the war until he learned that importation of briar roots had been cut off.

Welcome To Visiting Veterans

OVER this week-end Mansfield is privileged to extend a warm-hearted welcome to veterans of the 37th Division, American Expeditionary Forces—those Ohio National Guard young men who, in 1917 responded to the call of their country to serve in the first World war.

Including our own Co. M, and the other ONG companies from this vicinity, the 37th Division has held a place of high esteem among residents of Mansfield and Richland county who remember the crucial years of the World war, recall the departure of hometown boys and keep in mind the valiant record of these soldiers on foreign battlefields.

This was the division, it is remembered, that was given special recognition by the late King Albert, of Belgium, who referred to it as one of the most gallant divisions in the World war, and who personally decorated a number of its members, including several from Mansfield, for conspicuous bravery in battle.

Twenty-three years have passed since the young men of the 37th Division left their homes for service in the World war—a war which it was then fondly believed would make the world "safe for democracy"—but now, meeting as men approaching middle age, they contemplate a nation and a world in which democracy and human liberties are even more seriously threatened than during the period from 1914 through to the armistice of 1918.

Upon those who served in the earlier conflict, and who have experienced the reality of war, rests heavy responsibility to share in efforts now being made to assure continuation of peace in the Americas by building up the military defenses of the United States and associated nations of the Western Hemisphere to the extent of making successful attack impossible.

Mansfield is proud of the men of the 37th Division whose homes are still in this city, and extends cordial welcome to visiting veterans, their wives and families. In this group will be found a cross section of the patriotic Americanism which inspires confidence in the future of this nation.

Jobs for the Trained

PUBLIC technical high schools that instituted training courses for shop workers at the beginning of the summer report trainees getting jobs in defense plants today. Many of the men have been called to work before they finished their courses, and are either working nights and studying days or the other way around.

The directing principal of vocational education in Cleveland reports that 237 of 385 men enrolled in shop classes at two technical high schools there are already employed in industry. Half of one class that will finish its course early in September are now working at night.

None of the men in these groups had work at the beginning of the summer. All were carefully selected for training, on the basis of employability and aptitude.

Selected WPA workers who are studying automobile mechanics and trades at other schools are also finding jobs opening quickly to them.

"It makes a lot of difference," explains a leader in this work, "if a man can step up to a machine and do the right thing, even if he can't do it very fast at first." It does, indeed, and it looks as if the defense emergency had waked the nation up to the need of training for work as well as for military service.

Successful War Games

AS THE ANNUAL practice war maneuvers end and the men who took part return home, there is a general feeling that the experience was well worth while. The "games" this year were planned to do more than give the men their periodic training—often regarded by some of them as vacation. The idea was to discover weaknesses in organization and equipment and to show everybody, buck privates, officers and behind-the-scene authorities, just how tough a job preparedness for national defense would be and just where special work was necessary.

Officers report a fine spirit on the part of the men. In some areas they worked under bad weather conditions, but everybody was game and took his "punishment" like a good sport. Difficult maneuvers were executed well, according to one reporting general.

"While many deficiencies in performance have been noted," he says, "there have been duties performed with an outstanding degree of excellence. No one could fail to acknowledge the unusually high spirit of officers and men and the strength of will to succeed prevailing throughout the command."

Mistakes and shortcomings that were noted will be corrected. Furthermore, the August maneuvers have been an excellent curtain-raiser for the coming conscription and training of America's new defense army.

Danger In 'One-Eye' Driving

THE PRACTICE of night-driving with only one headlight burning has become so common in and around Mansfield that it may be doubted if any serious thought is given to the danger involved either by the offending driver or by enforcement officers who are apparently inclined to regard "insufficient lighting" as too small a matter to bother about.

The habit of "one-eye" driving probably also accounts for not infrequently noting the approach of a car in total darkness—likelihood being that the final bulb has burned out and that the driver is attempting to reach his destination undetected by city police or a highway patrolman.

In states and communities where there is enforcement of the law requiring two headlights to be turned on within a half hour after sunset, it is very seldom that a car is seen with only one headlight, and then only until opportunity is found to replace the burned out bulb.

"Insufficient lighting," as it is referred to in traffic laws, is among the most obvious of driving offenses—also one that can be most readily corrected if motorists are made to understand that they are liable to arrest and fine for driving after dark with only one headlight, or for not turning on their lights by the time specified in the law.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—Sally Rand, the bubble and fan dancer who has been barred from the New York World's fair but who is doing business every night at a hotel on Broadway, is a demure miss in all moments except those when camera fiends in the audience are spotted training their candid cameras on her dance. Then she becomes an indignant tigress and she will scratch your eyes out quicker than you can snap a-lense.

REASON: She wants no free thrills being toted about the country by sneaks who take unauthorized pictures of her dance, which, as you know, is done without benefit of clothing.

Second, she fears that bad photography will hurt her. She doesn't mind disrobing at the proper moment before paid audiences. She very much minds those who would "sully" her reputation by emphasizing nudity when it is really grace after all that is her forte, in case you didn't know.

Lately she has refused attractive offers from picture magazines wishing exclusive pictures of her dance. "It's the principle of the thing," she explains. "Those sort of pictures aren't good for you. Usually they are made out to be something entirely different than what they really are." So that's the set-up. A special warning is also passed along to those who might try to defy this edict. Not only will Sally scratch your eyes out, she'll also have you arrested. It hasn't been a week since one enthusiastic observer started out to sneak a picture and ended up explaining his behavior to a judge.

YOU like golf stories like the one Larry Clinton sent in last week? Here's another of the old Dipsy-Doodler's anecdotes of a wayside tee which concerns Joe Venuti, who at one time played an amazingly hot fiddle for Mr. Paul Whiteman. The action takes place at the 18th hole.

Approaching a water hazard Joe's drive fell short, leaving him a 200-yard shot to clear the water. Venuti blithely reached for his spoon at which the caddy conversationally said he didn't think Joe could make it.

"Don't you tell me how to play!" thundered Venuti, and promptly slapped the ball right into the lake. Warning the boy not to say a word, Joe took a new ball and dropped it in the same place. In a stentorian voice he called for a third ball. The caddy, unnerved by now, meekly handed it to him only to see it fall not five feet from where the others had landed. Joe called for a new ball.

"Mr. Venuti," wailed the caddy, "we haven't got any more!"

Joe headed lugubriously for the water hazard. At its bank he took the spoon he had been carrying and broke it over his knee and threw it in the water. Without a word he turned to the caddy, took the golf bag, and with a muttered word threw the bag in the water. Then he picked up the protesting caddy and threw him into the water!

Then with a despairing look, Venuti pulled off the sport shirt that Bing Crosby had given him, and he jumped in!

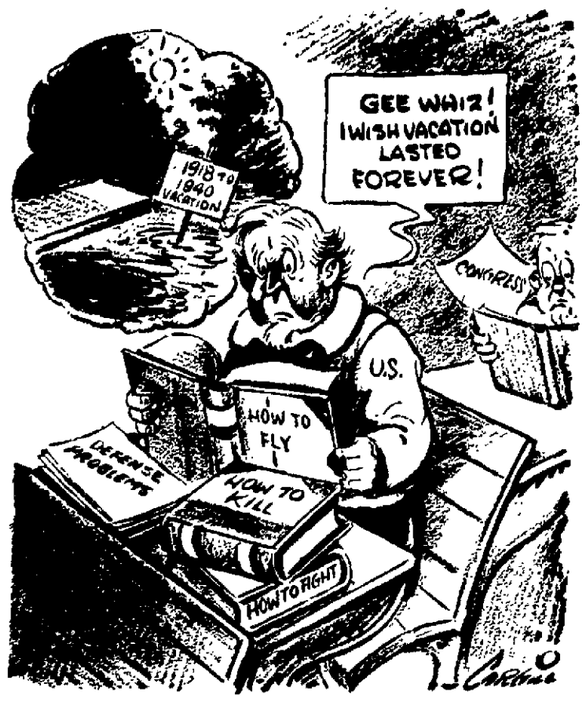
BACK TO SCHOOL AGAIN



Youthful Nazi Pilots Lack Training

—By CARTER FIELD

WASHINGTON — One of the reasons why the British have been able to bring down such a heavy toll of Nazi flyers in proportion to their own loss of airplanes, according to Captain Harold H. Balfour, British undersecretary for air, is that the Nazis have been sending aviators into battle without sufficient training.

Another is that the British fighting planes are very much superior to any of the various German types. Still a third, when it comes to big aircraft, according to Captain Balfour, is that the Germans cramp their crews, and actually interfere with their effectiveness, in order to have the individual men close together physically. This is thought necessary by the Germans in order that the physical closeness may aid in maintaining morale in emergencies.

A REASON that Captain Balfour did not state, but which goes without saying, is that a certain number of the German planes brought down are hit by anti-aircraft fire. Another percentage, small though it may be, run into trouble and as a result have to make forced landings. Finally, there are the balloon barrages.

The actual effects of the balloons on the Nazi flyers, as explained by Captain Balfour, are just a little different from the common understanding of their purpose in this country. In the first place, the balloons are placed around strategically important areas, not in circular formations, as might be expected, but at carefully calculated heights and positions, the object being to interfere with normal movements by the attacking bombers, both in their swoops down toward the objective, and in their rise after the swoop.

"It is not only the balloon itself," said Captain Balfour, explaining this, "though I know from personal experience how it plays havoc with a flyer's nerves, especially if the visibility is poor, to know that there are balloons somewhere ahead. But the wires holding the balloons are very difficult to see. So you are afraid to fly under the gas bag. It's easy of course to shoot the balloons down. They are very vulnerable. But they are also very cheap and simple to replace, whereas the ground gear, which is expensive, is seldom damaged."

GERMANY has been prodigiously wasteful of the lives of her aviators. Captain Balfour thinks, sending them out not only with insufficient training, but with inadequate information as to the objectives. Britain's "luck" in losing so few bombing planes attacking objectives in Germany and along the channel, he thinks, is due to infinitely better training, superior planes, and most important of all, that the training permitted night instead of day raiding.

In fact, Captain Balfour is highly optimistic about eventual victory, this largely because of some inherent weakness in the direction of the Nazi air force. Where and when the break will come he has no prediction, but that it will come sooner or later he is sure.

With every passing day, he says, the only superiority the Germans have, that of numbers, is being decreased. He called attention to Winston Churchill's statement in the house of commons that already, with American supplies added to those of the Empire, production for Britain has risen to the level of Germany's.

Whether Captain Balfour's reasons are accurate or not, and there is no obvious flaw in them, it is apparent that, despite German official claims, the Germans are losing a very heavy percentage of the planes they send to "pulverize" England, and so far, according to U. S. official sources of information, the damage has not been important from a military standpoint, horrifying as it may be from the humanitarian aspect.

Listen, World!

Two Voices That I Hear.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

ALWAYS two voices are speaking in me. Beneath all the giggling and chattering, the squealing and sobbing and shrieking of life, those two voices murmur on and on. Out of the bedlam they are the only really important sounds. Constantly, night and day, they ask and answer each other, something like this—

(And now, reading, you will be amazed and cry, "But how did she know? These aren't her voices; they're mine! These are the questions and answers which have gone on in me, ever since I can remember!")

FIRST VOICE—What's life all about?

SECOND VOICE—I don't know.

FIRST VOICE—But is life worth living, if we don't know what it's all about?

SECOND VOICE—Why not? The fact that I can't understand it is no proof that a thing isn't worth while. My mind is a mighty limited affair; there are so few things which I can understand. But life's a great show. Life's worth while, even if I haven't the answers.

FIRST VOICE—Yes, that sounds fine. It's grand philosophy. But you know perfectly well that it isn't enough. You've got to get more than philosophy out of life to make it worth while. You can't just watch it as a show. You must have a more personal interest in it; a warmer comfort. You've got to feel that you, yourself, have a goal in it, and some sort of a God who understands and cares.

SECOND VOICE—I can always find a goal if I'll look for one. We're not held back by lack of goals, but by our own ignorance, laziness and cowardice. But even if our goals prove washouts, as they're often bound to do in these hard times, even if all my personal plans fail—I can still feel proud and excited about life?

FIRST VOICE—How?

SECOND VOICE—By realizing that I'm part of a tremendous plan which is going on, in spite of depressions. By reading what wise and brave men have done in the past and are still doing. By realizing that it's up to me to carry on their example of courage and fineness.

FIRST VOICE—Yes; that sounds wonderful. And you can kid yourself along a lot, telling yourself things like that. But you're bound to have times of complete bitterness and darkness. What then?

SECOND VOICE—Those times come anyway. You have them whether you're a success or a failure.

FIRST VOICE—But all this talk about God. If there really were a God, He'd save you times like that. You'd always feel safe, no matter what happened. But, with all your smart arguments, you can't prove there is a God.

SECOND VOICE—No. I can't prove there is a God. But neither can I prove there isn't. So I'm choosing to take a chance. I'm choosing to act as if there were Someone who understands and cares—as if there were a Great Plan behind all this confusion—as if I were an important part of that plan.

FIRST VOICE—Sure. But suppose you find you're all wrong?

SECOND VOICE—I won't find it until I'm dead—and then it won't matter. Anyway, I stand to win. If there's nothing more after this, all the more reason for making life as gallant an adventure as possible. If there is no God, all the more reason for me acting like one. I can't understand or decide any of the really important matters, but this much I can do. I can or a mouse. I prefer to live them decide to live my days like a man, like a man, strutting my stuff as if I had all eternity to do it in. Then, whatever happens, I'll have had the best of it. And, if there's more—it will all be velvet!

FIRST VOICE—But—

Two voices, constantly murmuring, constantly asking and answering each other, questions like this. "How did she know?" you cry. Those voices are asking and answering in me, too!"

Parallels.

These interesting parallels have been noted in connection with Secretary Ickes's speech to smear Wendell Willkie:

Ickes reproaches Willkie for having changed his political party; Ickes has changed his own party.

Ickes reproaches Willkie for his money which Willkie saved from his salary; Ickes is understood to be fairly well-to-do himself, although he didn't get his money by saving it from his salary.

Ickes reproached Willkie for having a small apartment on Fifth avenue; Ickes lives more elaborately than Willkie.

Ickes reproached Willkie for the character of his support. Ickes at Chicago was photographed with the Democratic bosses whom he had fiercely denounced but was then chumming with.

Oh, well, politics we suppose is politics. But we wonder if the American public doesn't have some distaste for the sort of politics practiced by Secretary Ickes. —Kansas City Times.

Summary of Week's Happenings

Fate of Conscription Up to House; Nazis, Britons Exchange Bombs

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

NO WONDER that Hitler has the utmost contempt for Democratic institutions which are incapable of prompt and wise action in times of emergency."

Thus spoke Republican Senator Gibson in urging quick action on conscription. He was not alone. Both President Roosevelt and Wendell Willkie asked for immediate action. Cartoonists chided senators for shilly-shallying.

So the lawmakers, after considering the bill since June 20, began bustling toward a vote. Night sessions were held. Mild curbs were placed on debate. Even isolationist Senator Vandenberg agreed: "It is time to vote on conscription, one way or the other."

In the way of an immediate vote were a number of hurdles. Senators accepted two proposals by young Republican Senator Lodge to limit the service of peacetime conscripts to the Western Hemisphere ("Keep 'em out of Europe") and to fix 900,000 as the most conscripts to be trained at any one peacetime period. (Only men in the 21-to-31 age group would be conscripted.)

Then the senate rejected amendments by Senators Maloney, Walsh and Taft to delay the actual conscription. On Wednesday the bill itself was passed by a vote of 58 to 31 before packed galleries.

Against the bill were 17 Democrats, 10 Republicans, four others. House members, who had been marking time while the senate argued, believed their body would follow suit.

Defense Board Meets.

Meanwhile six Americans went to Ottawa to serve on the Joint American Canadian Defense board. The members include two army and two navy officers, a state department official and New York's Mayor LaGuardia. They picked LaGuardia as chairman.

The governor of Bermuda revealed that the Great Sound of Bermuda will be made available to the U. S. as an air, and perhaps as a naval base on a 99-year lease. Such a mid-Atlantic filling station would increase the range of U. S. planes and warships by 600 miles.

At Home

Armament Argument.

Charges of fumbling and delay in getting the armament program under way harried the administration this week. Senator Byrd mentioned that only 343 combat planes had been ordered in the last 100 days.

So the president called for statistics and then announced the situation was not nearly as bad as Byrd had implied. He said that 10,000 army and navy planes were being built and that deliveries were being made now at a rate of 800 finished planes per month. (Most of these are trainer planes, not combat.) Other officials said the army has placed contracts covering 75% of all funds available.

Changing Cabinet.

Of President Roosevelt's original 10 cabinet members only three remain: Cordell Hull, Harold L. Ickes, and Frances Perkins. Two others from 1933 days, James Farley and Henry Wallace, resigned earlier this month. (Agriculture Undersecretary Wickard will succeed Wallace.)

The army and navy posts have changed often. In the latest shift Harry Woodring and Charles Edison made way for Republicans Henry Stimson and Col. Frank Knox.

This week, in the fifth cabinet shuffle since shortly before the Democratic convention, long-ailing Harry Hopkins quit as commerce secretary. Jesse Jones, federal loan administrator and friend of sulking Vice President Garner was asked to succeed him.

Sir George's Preview.

Famed British economist Sir George Paish was lecturing America about economics as long as three decades ago.

Recently, at 72, he came to America again. His plan was to wait until after the November elections, then deliver a sizzling series on Hitler's intentions toward the Americas. So hot are his lectures, he said, that he decided to preview them for certain senators.

One listener was anti-draft Senator Wheeler who told the senate that Sir George had said: "I am responsible for getting this country into the last war and I intend to get it into this one . . . well, everything short of war."

Sir George was horrified. He insisted he had put it much more mildly. "In England," he grumbled, "a private conversation is private." British officials promptly announced he was speaking without authority.

This Is Ohio

THE Division of Conservation wants visitors to take advantage of state-owned lakes, parks, forests and recreational areas.

Twelve hatcheries produce millions of fish for distribution in public water of the state which are open to the public. Two game farms breed, rear and liberate about 35,000 ringneck pheasants annually and so well has the stocking and management of these game birds done that Ohio now is a leading state in pheasant hunting. Over 50,000 rabbits, and numerous grouse, Hungarian partridges, raccoon and other game are purchased annually to replenish the woods, fields and streams. It is the policy of the department that the game crop shall keep step with the demand.

Everyday Poem

—By GEORGE ELLISTON

Day's Work.

Day's work—I wake and plan
Each task. I look ahead
And see in prospect all
That should be done and said.

The pattern of the day I hold
In my two hands; it glows
With all the interest
That loved work always knows.

I like to wake and plan
The day ahead like this;
If I go unprepared,
Half of the joy I miss.

Assured I go when I
Have each thing neatly planned;
I move with confidence
To tasks I understand.

The Swiss could be brought to terms without the use of guns. They live by foreign trade and must import most of their food and fuel. Having no seaports, their communications must now go via Nazi-occupied France, Germany or Italy. They have adopted rationing, have shut down their tourist hotels and their factories and installed censorship.

But Germany may feel it is cheaper to trade with Switzerland than to try to absorb her, and Italy may want a free Alpine state as a barrier between herself and Germany.

Argentina's Scandal.

When the Argentina army prepared to buy up a tract of land its war minister agreed to pay $612,000, of five times the amount army technicians had decided the land was worth. That, at least, was the conclusion of a senate committee, and as a result two ministers were charged with negligence.

So vast was the outcry that the government of sickly, stately President Ortiz wobbled. Pro-Nazi, anti-British critics of Ortiz whooped for his resignation. Democratic, anti-Nazi leaders rallied to his side. He offered to resign. Last week-end, congress strongly upheld him. Nonetheless his cabinet thought it best to resign.

Politics

Willkie In the News.

The Republican nominee for president hopped on WPA for playing politics by increasing the rolls by 90,000 during July. WPA officials snapped back that July enrollment as a whole was 100,000 less than June; that in the coming months before election WPA would employ fewer men than in the same months of any year since 1937. They suggested that Mr. Willkie specify just where he would cut, and how many.

Willkie said he did not want the support of Rev. Charles Coughlin if he understood correctly that the radio priest opposes certain people because of race or religion. Coughlin's paper had praised his acceptance speech.

Willkie asked for a cabinet member in charge of aviation. Democratic Chairman Flynn reminded him that three Republican presidents had turned down such a scheme.

In Short

Signed: A bill by FDR mobilizing the national guard. About 50,000 will probably be called up on Sept. 15.

Begun: The fingerprinting of 3,600,000 aliens in America, by the Justice department, to be completed around Christmas.

Notified: Charles L. McNary, Republican, and Henry A. Wallace, Democrat, that they had been nominated for vice president.

Invited: Officers from every republic in Latin America to visit the U. S. in October to look over the U. S. military establishment, by Army Chief of Staff Marshall.

Renominated: Senator Hiram Johnson of California, for a fifth term, on Democratic and Progressive tickets as well as G. O. P.; and Mississippi's stormy Senator Theo Bilbo for a second term, by Democrats.

Died: Rep. George Seger of New Jersey; Sir Oliver Lodge, scientist and spiritualist; Britain's Duke of Bedford.

Abroad

Exchange Visits.

This week was marked by both Germans and Britons making regular nocturnal raids over each others' capitals. AP newsmen found that these raids did very little actual damage; but speculated that loss of sleep for weeks might seriously affect the peoples and their production.

Londoners reportedly took the raids calmly after the initial excitement, danced in theaters, played cards in shelters and paid 10 cents to watch the spectacle from a stadium.

Britons suspected that the promised total assault was slow in coming because Herr Hitler was having woes aplenty in the Balkans, his "feeder" states.

Hungary was made brash in her demands for Rumandia's Transylvania by the example set by Russia's Josef Stalin in helping himself to Bessarabia. Rumania, in turn, became mulish when she suspected that Hitler was so busy with his drive on Britain that he wouldn't risk disruption of his supplies and campaign to crack down on her.

MANSFIELD COUPLE WEDDED AT ST. PETER'S

Nuptial Vows Exchanged This Morning By Miss Catherine Horvath, Amico Carmel; Msgr. R. C. Goebel Officiates.

THE ALTAR of St. Peter's Catholic church was banked with palms and decorated with beauty baskets of white gladioli this morning at 9:30 o'clock for the marriage of Miss Catherine Barbara Horvath to Amico Carmel. Msgr. R. C. Goebel officiated.

Miss Horvath is the daughter of Mrs. Barbara Pappas, 212 Spring street, and she has been employed at the Stratbury Manufacturing company at Galion. For her wedding she chose a gown of white slipper satin made with a wide, set-in waist band from which a medium length trained skirt descended. The sleeves were made long and tight, and the sweetheart neckline was caught with two pearl clips.

With her gown she wore a double circular cape veil attached to a cluster of pearlized orange blossoms. Miss Horvath carried a bouquet composed of an orchid center flanked with swansonia, gladioli tips and gardenias.

She was given in marriage by her step-father, John Pappas.

The cousin of the bridegroom, Miss Helen Stirp, Pavonia, served as maid of honor, while Grace Jeffrey and Claudine Colangelo were the bridesmaids. Paul Carbetta was best man, and the ushers were Joseph Spitaliere and James Musille.

The three attendants' gowns were fashioned alike with Miss Stirp in cameo rose, and the bridesmaids in debutante blue. The full skirted horizontally-tucked dresses were worn over crinolin petticoats. Short puffed sleeves and sweetheart necklines completed the tight, long-wasted bodices. Velvet Mary of Scots bonnets to match the dresses trimmed with ostrich tips and tied with velvet streamers completed the costumes.

The maid of honor carried Talisman roses and gladioli tips, while the two bridesmaids carried Briarcliff roses and gladioli tips.

At 5 o'clock this afternoon the newlyweds are receiving 100 guests at the Sons of Herman hall. Mr. and Mrs. Carmel are making their home at the Spring street address.

He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carmel, 267 North Adams street, and is employed at the Martin Steel Products company.

"The Authority on Authorities"

HONORS ON THE SIDE

CLEAR observers of results know that high honor cards usually are more valuable if they are in side suits than if they are in the suit you bid. They afford you much better defensive values if you wind up playing against the opponents' contract, as they are less likely to be ruffed. They build a better situation for No Trump play if your partner bids the suit that plugs up your weak spot. And they lure many a later double from the defender at your left if your partner supports your suit, the opponent expecting his honors to sit over yours, whereas those held by your partner are over him.

West had visions of a sure set, with his spade A and his doubly guarded trump Q, with his diamond K and club Q thrown in for good measure. South made his contract, however, like rolling off a log. The double told him to finesse against West for the heart Q and not to finesse the diamonds. West led the spade A, then the 9, and the show was over. Three hearts settled that job. Then four spades furnished discards of three diamonds, and a trump was left in dummy to ruff the last club.

At another table of the same duplicate game, both North and South refused to bid hearts without a trick and a half at the top of the suit. So South opened with 1-Diamond, North bid 1-Spade, South 2-No Trumps, North 3-No Trumps, then the Blackwood convention was used as by the heart bidders and the side wound up at 6-No Trumps. West also doubled that, so the hearts again were played right, but the contract was impossible because at No Trumps you can't ruff a club. The diamond finesse had to be tried. It failed and the contract was down.

CHAPTER VI.

Edwina was sitting up in bed with a small red satin bow, tied to the forelock of her dark hair and a cigaret burning between her fingers when Norman Alexander followed Amy's erect figure into her room that night.

"I hope," Amy said after she had introduced them, that you won't be blaming each other for the accident. You're both to blame."

Norman smiled. "I promise you, Miss Durfee, that at the worst we'll be friendly enemies."

Edwina brightened and with a boyish gesture of friendliness held out her hand. "Thank you for the flowers. They're lovely. And we'll agree with Amy that we're pretty reckless people who should not be allowed to drive."

"It was fun, wasn't it?"

"And my fault. Won't you sit down? Amy is glad I have company. It keeps me from ringing for the nurses."

Amy said, "I'll leave you two. I'll be back later, Edwina," and she went out, feeling as Carol had felt, that their meeting was peculiarly fateful. But then ordinary things did not happen to Edwina. She plunged into adventure, and drama followed her. She was Patrick Burke's daughter and Patrick Burke had been a modern Midas. And poverty was still another adventure for her, and it was one which made Amy fear for her.

Had Norman Alexander's abounding good health and spirits revitalized her, Edwina wondered. She felt stronger with the heady excitement she knew to be dangerous. New thoughts scattered through her mind, making her happy again. Happy. . . . How long it was since she was truly happy she had forgotten. The past year of lies and borrowing and terror passed in quick nightmarish review as she thought. You're my New Deal, Norman. Maybe the luck of the Irish is returning."

He was a person who made himself at home even in a hospital room and she thought what a relaxed person he was as he spoke of her car, which was being repaired, and of her hospital expenses. Conscious as she was of money, she scarcely listened for seeing herself with Norman this summer, swimming, motoring, playing tennis. Long ago she had told herself that she wasn't capable of falling in love again; that she knew men too well and was too much of a realist to spin dreams around any man. Lately she had begun to value what she had never considered before—the security of a sensible marriage.

She knew herself, her assets, her lacks, her weaknesses. And she knew now without a single doubt that she made an attractive picture to a young man who knew no one in a town which she could call her own.

Her confidence returning, her future looking not quite so dark, she said, "I saw the morning paper. It's odd we haven't met before. I'm sure we know some of the same people. It's Dick Fenton's house you have, isn't it? I've seen Dick occasionally around New York. . . ."

He smiled. "You're a celebrity. I stopped at the club tonight for a cocktail, met some people and heard about your father. From all accounts, he was an extraordinary man."

Before long they were exchanging recollections of places in New York and abroad, and of people they knew. She tried not to look too animated and hopeful, and she wondered if he sensed that she had directed the conversation into channels that would bring them closer. And all the while she liked his boyish, abandoned laugh, the strength of the big frame and the clean cut of his features. Though Amy had said she could not leave until Monday, Edwina said, "I'm going home tomorrow. Opening my house. . . ."

Norman said, "I've seen it. Nice cozy little place of about twenty-five rooms. . . ."

She laughed. "And it's waiting for me. There's an old care-taker and his wife, Sam and Mary, who've been looking after it for me." Then she said, "People out in the hills will expect me to give a party. I've been thinking about it today and it will be Saturday a week. I'd like you to come. . . . Lights and music in the house that had had no lights and music since her coming-out party, since that awful night five years ago. . . . And this time it would not be the sight of Alan walking toward her that sent her heart racing; she would welcome Norman, whom she should have met sooner.

"I'll be delighted. Something to write back to the slaves in New York. A party at Edwina Burke's. . . . Probably bring Dick flying down so as not to miss the fun. You're going home tomorrow? Do you think Miss Durfee would allow you to go to the club with me Saturday night? I understand that's the thing to do here. . . ."

She laughed again, the quick, impulsive, throaty laugh that was so much her own. "We'll make it a treat. She'll have to consent. Incidentally she . . . All my life I've thought of her as a safe harbor. When I was tiny and lived on the wrong side of the tracks, she was a visiting nurse. She's grown with Newton, too, and when my father endowed the hospital it was with the understanding that she was to be superintendent of nurses. Some years ago a group of citizens wanted to make her mayor. She declined. Wouldn't leave her precious hospital. She's one of my favorite people and I like to talk about her. She's one of the few people who can overlook the mean petty things in you and see something better and greater."

When he arose, she held out her hand again and he came to the bed and took it. Their hands locked firmly and all at once she felt that she was going to cry—from gratitude and from a happiness that was a new kind of happiness for her. Looking up, smiling a twisted smile, everything in the room was obliterated, she thought, except the lean, exceedingly attractive face and the alert dark eyes which seemed rather pleasantly puzzled.

"Saturday night, Edwina. Cocktails and dinner at the club."

"Fine. You know my house."

"I couldn't miss it."

"If I knew you better. . . ."

"I hope you will. . . ."

* * *

Though her room was dark, she knew it was Amy who came in. Knowing that she would came, Edwina had turned off the light so that Amy could not see that she had been crying. What was she crying about? During the year when she was wondering what was going to become of her she had not cried once, and now that she was home and in Amy's care the tears had rolled unchecked down her cheeks. How she had endured the past year amazed her now. Dropping in on friends who were at dinner and saying brightly, "Oh, I'm sorry. I thought you dined much later," in order to avoid paying for her dinner on an evening when she was not invited out. And saying to Barbara Carter, "I'm going to sell my mink coat. I'm thoroughly sick of the thing. Quite a bargain. Do you want it? How tired her face had got from wearing a forced smile! How weary she had become from trying to live up to the legend of Edwina Burke!

"Are you asleep?" Amy asked.

"No. And don't go. I'm going to have a cigaret and I promise I won't set the bed afire. I'm used to smoking in the dark." When the red end of the cigaret glowed in the darkness, she said, "You've got to let me go tomorrow, Amy. I have a date with him on Saturday night. My clothes must be a sad sight. They're in the rumble seat. It probably hasn't occurred to him that I brought anything but myself. I want to get the house opened. . . ."

She knew that Amy was smiling when she said, "I think I can arrange it, Edwina. He's—he's very nice, isn't he? That sounds deadly dull, but he isn't dull. He looks as if he's not of one place but of many places."

"You'll laugh at me. But—but what is love?"

Marriage Meddlers

By ADELE GARRISON

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"YES, I CAN imagine he would be," my father said, and then was silent for the space of several seconds.

I knew better than to interrupt his musing, but I had an uneasy, albeit a slightly mirthful vision of Philip Veritzen—who always has his corners cushioned—fuming at the other end of the telephone.

But when my father finally did speak, I forgot everything in the surprise of his words.

"I have been expecting this," he said. "I am glad it came just at this time. It just fits in.

"Do not give him my private number," he said, spacing his words with slow deliberation. "Tell him there are reasons why I do not wish to talk to anyone over the telephone just now."

He stopped and shot a quizzical look at me.

"I can understand that you might feel a certain reluctance to deliver a message like that to the great man.

"Ask him to come to the farm as soon as he possibly can get here," he said, "and to come with the idea that he and Otto may stay here for two or three days."

Despite my resolution, my composure was not proof against this announcement, and I suppose my tell-tale face reflected my housewifely dismay at the prospect, for my father smiled suddenly.

"You need have no worry over the housing problem," he said with what he evidently believed to be complete reassurance. "They will come as members of our 'domestic militia,' and they will take camp luck, the same as the rest of us. This may be hard on that super sybarite, Philip Veritzen, but he has no choice. He virtually has asked for this, and I shall give it to him."

Feeling that there was an undercurrent of thought into which I would better not plunge, I did not try to probe his meaning, simply listened with close attention as he went on.

"There are plenty of beds and cots," he said, "and we shall all take turns in lying down in them when we are not keeping watch."

The implication in this shattered my resolution of quiet acquiesence in whatever he should say.

"Father!" I said explosively. "You must not!—

His eyebrows contracted into an involuntary frown, which, however, cleared instantly, for he never shows displeasure toward me. But he put up his hand with a prohibitive gesture.

"My dear child!" he said, and there was something inexorable in his voice which told me that no protest from me would be of the slightest use. "I cannot permit even you to interfere with my plans at this critical time. I can only promise you to be as careful of my strength as possible, and—I shall not expect anything strenuous from Mr. Veritzen. But Otto is a stout fellow in any emergency."

I nodded, in silent agreement with him, for Philip Veritzen's burly, stolid, devoted chauffeur has proved his loyalty, his bravery, and his competence on more than one occasion.

"Be sure to stress his losing no time," my father continued, and the tone of his voice was even more urgent than his words.

EIGHT ESCAPE BOMBER CRASH

Parachute Safely to Earth In 'Unheard Of' Feat By Entire Crew.

(By Associated Press)

McCHORD FIELD, Wash. — Eight men—the entire crew—parachuted to safety from a falling bomber, a feat described by an army officer as "unheard of."

The big Douglas B-18A bomber crashed in rugged wooded country north of the little western Washington town of Kalama yesterday after one of its two motors went dead.

"It's unheard of for so many men to successfully escape by parachute in such circumstances," Col. Carlyle H Wash, McChord field commander, said. The men suffered no injuries except minor bruises.

First Lieut. Jack N. Donohew, pilot, stuck to the plane until his comrades left. He suffered a bruised leg in escaping from the crazily gyrating ship.

"After losing altitude, I ordered the men to jump," he related "They started jumping at 4,000 feet."

The eight men landed over a mile of rugged country. Several of them were directed out of the woods by a 15-year-old farm boy's hound horn.

Capt H. W. Pennington, McChord field adjutant, said the officer of an investigating party reported there was no explanation why the motor cut out. The bombers are supposed to maintain flight on either of the motors alone.

BAND PARADES

BUCYRUS—Bucyrus welcomed back its first contingent of National Guard Friday when the 134th Field Artillery band returned from the Wisconsin training camp by the way of the Pennsylvania railroad.

The Voice of BROADWAY

By CLAUDE BINYON
Columbia Scenarist.

(Editor's Note: Perhaps it was the Arizona heat, which baked Claude Binyon for three months during the filming of Columbia's "Arizona," that is responsible for this vacation guest column which he titled, "Glory For Hunger." Binyon was asked to write on any subject he wished and this was his choice, although the story of the young actor rings very similar to the experiences of William Holden, Binyon's pal and star of the picture.—R C.)

This young punk kept pushing against me at the bar and he was too young to hit either way you figure it

"You say you're a writer," he said.

"I didn't say a word."

"All right, you say you're a writer and I got a story."

"My Aunt Minnie's got a story I said. "All she needs is a finish and a beginning and a middle, and it's about her life She wants half of what we get for it, and she'll come to Hollywood to live with me on her half."

"That's like my story," said the young punk. He drank a highball without breathing The bartender looked at him thoughtfully. "What time should he be on the set?" the bartender asked

"Five-thirty for makeup," I said

"A highball," said the young punk.

"Nuts," the bartender answered.

"That's what I mean," said the kid. "There's no place in life for me. No place." He turned on me. "Do you know who I am?" he asked

"Yes, I know who you are."

* * *

"I'm a movie star. I got a hundred and fifty dollars a week and I'm a movie star."

"That's good money for a guy your age," I said.

"My father makes more than that. My father isn't even in pictures."

"He's older than you are."

"That's not the point. I'm what you dream about being, with a big car and a butler, and when I'm not in a picture I don't draw a penny Do you know what I made in my first picture?"

"You got good notices," I answered

"Fifty bucks a week for six weeks Three hundred bucks, and I had to buy my own wardrobe Mr Cinderella, they called me I was a star in my first picture."

"Do you mind if we quit talking?" I asked

"I spent two hundred of that buying clothes," said the kid "When the picture was finished I went to New York for personal appearances because they told me it would do me good."

"What did you get for that?" I asked

"Expenses All the cigars I could smoke, and the dames were mobbing me."

* * *

"They tore your coat," I remembered

"For souvenirs," said the kid "A $75 suit for souvenirs

"This picture we're doing will make you," I said "You can ask for a thousand dollars a week

I already asked I have a seven-year contract, and when I'm as old as my father I might be doing all right."

"Maybe we could let him have a beer," said the bartender

"No," I said

"Give me a highball," said the kid "I got to tell my story."

"Nuts," said the bartender

"See what I mean?" wailed the kid

Heath Homers as Tribe Beats Chicago White Sox, 4 to 2

Boston Gains In Race

Williams' Triple Enables Sox to Turn Back Athletics, 5-4.

By JUDSON BAILEY
(Associated Press Sports Writer.)

THE weather man hasn't been very helpful this week in the efforts of the major league baseball clubs to iron out their pennant problems, but there is no indication that they could have accomplished anything even if he had been.

* * *

The Cincinnati Reds and Brooklyn Dodgers collided in a two-game series that fizzled. The two games were split and the only difference they made in the National flag chase was that Brooklyn, failing to improve itself, muffed a chance it could ill afford in the shortening days of the season.

It now appears that neither Cleveland's back nor Bobby Feller's heart was broken in that boisterous series the New York Yankees swept last week-end.

Feller gave the Indians their second straight victory last night, 4-2, at Chicago after saving their scalps with a relief appearance at Washington on Monday.

It was Feller's 23rd victory and lifted the Tribe to 2½ games ahead of Detroit and five over New York, both of whom were idle.

The Boston Red Sox also closed in on the Yankees from behind by putting the Philadelphia Athletics through a 5-4 wringer. Ted Williams knocked the winning run across with a triple in the seventh inning to capitalize on Joe Heving's fine relief pitching, which permitted the A's only two hits in 5⅓ innings.

Snead Favored In PGA Meet

Only Two Plays Barring Way to 1940 Crown.

HERSHEY, Pa. — (AP) — Sam Snead, pre-tournament favorite every time the professional golfers get together, stood on the threshold again today with only two players barring his way to the really big victory his all-around ability merits.

* * *

His performance yesterday in defeating Gene Sarazen, thrice P. G. A. champion, wiped out the memory of those tournaments in which he has been a front runner and folded.

* * *

Snead's one up triumph after a 36-hole uphill fight put him against Harold (Jug) McSpaden, whom he had to play off to win the Canadian open crown several weeks ago. In the other bracket, Byron Nelson meets Ralph Guldahl. Both are former U. S. open champions.

Out of PGA

Twice national P. G. A. golf champion, Denny Shute of Philadelphia had to leave the field at Hershey, Pa., and underwent an emergency appendectomy. Shute had qualified for the match play despite the fact he complained of illness all day.

WALKER IS ILL

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Heavyweight boxer Buddy Walker's throat is too sore for him to appear in Cincinnati today for a physical examination, his manager, Whitey Morrett, asserted here. The Cincinnati Boxing commission ordered the examination to determine if Walker was able to fight Eddie Simms, of Cleveland, after he failed to appear for the bout Thursday.

Tulane Depends on Its Reserve Strength

LENNY SAUER: Never Heard of Him? Just Wait Until This Fall.

BOB GLASS: One of Several Able Halfbacks.

This is the first of a series of brief stories telling of the prospects of the teams which played in the "Bowl" games in 1940 . . . No. 1 is Tulane Green Wave which suffered a 14 to 13 beating from powerful Texas A. and M. in the Sugar bowl Faced with a schedule that calls for it to face Boston, College, Auburn, Fordham, Rice, North Carolina, Louisiana Normal and Louisiana State on successive week-ends, Tulane must rely on its reserves to handle the situation. Tulane lost 11 men for the varsity squad of 22 players and Coach Lowell "Red Dawson is worried about the greenness of the reserves. Among those lost this season is Harley McCollum, all-America tackle, who is ineligible. Bob Glass, former Massillon high star, is one of the backs Dawson is depending upon to lead the way. Another star is Lenny Sauer, triple-threat ace. Lenny is one of the team's ace passers. Glass is a junior.

Reds, Eager to Cinch Title, Call on Bucky Walters Today

CINCINNATI —(AP)— Now that the Cincinnati Reds believe they are safely on the road to possession of another National league pennant, with a seven and one-half game lead, they expect to lose no time in cinching the championship.

* * *

The Rhinelanders have won 12 of 17 games with Chicago this season but they called their ace hurler, Bucky Walters, to face the Cubs today with the purpose of adding additional distance to their margin over the second-place Dodgers.

Walters, trying for his 19th victory, was matched against Bill Lee, on the mound for Chicago.

The Dodgers stirred their pennant hopes yesterday by slapping a 6-2 defeat on the Reds and splitting a two game series. The victory ended a run of four consecutive Brooklyn defeats at the hands of the Cincinnati club.

Luke (Hot Potato) Hamlin allowed the Reds ten hits but stopped them cold when they got in scoring position and forced Junior Thompson, out for his 14th victory, into his eighth defeat.

Frank McCormick got his 18th homer of the season in the opening round. The Dodgers squared the count in the second inning on two singles and a double play, and broke the one-all deadlock in the third as Pete Reiser hit safely, stole second and rode home on Dixie Walker's single to left.

* * *

Brooklyn scored two more runs in the sixth as Reiser clubbed out a homer and Dolph Camilli followed with his 18th of the year. In the same stanza Ernie Lombardi and Jimmy Ripple counted the Reds' second tally on consecutive doubles.

* * *

Joe Beggs took over for the Reds in the eighth but the Flatbushers scored twice off him in the same round on three singles and an error by Lonnie Frey.

SPORTS GOSSIP

By EDDIE BRIETZ

NEW YORK — NEWS: If you like the Yanks you can get 3-1 in Jack Dayle's bank. . . Mike Jacobs reported shifting from Billy Conn to Pat Comiskey as Joe Louis' next apponent . . . Banks McFadden's successor in the tailback spot at Clemson will be Joe Blalock, an end, who chucks aerials from the port side and is the only triple threater in sight.

* * *

Welby Van Horn, young coast net star, wants to 'break into baseball and was auditioned by the Red Sox last week . . . The football Dodgers offered Nile Kinnick a $7,000 contract . . . Ky Laffoon has 75,000 yams in the bank and doesn't give a whoop if he never wins another golf tourney.

THEY'RE THE TOPS.

They'll not win the pennant, but the White Sox still are the American league's champion jockeys . . . They stand in a body and applaud loudly whenever Joe McCarthy makes a rare emergence from the dugout, thanking him for a personal appearance . . . And they're getting under the Indians' hides by suggesting it would be nice if you could run bases as fast as they run up the steps to owner Bradley's office.

* * *

Paul Waner, Lee Handley and Bob Klinger teed off in the Pittsburgh city championship the other day and swiped the entire gallery . . . Steve Owen of the football Giants called the turn on the All-Star game—said Green Bay would beat the collegers at their own game—passing . . . What about Dartmouth getting ready to cancel its football series with Georgia? . . . Also, what about those stories coming out of Orange, N. J., home of what used to be the great Galento?

TODAY'S STAR GUEST.

John Mooney, Salt Lake Telegram: "No wonder Oscar Vitt worries the Indians with his antics . . . you'd squirm, too, if the apple of your eye (Bobby Feller) suddenly turned into a crab apple."

Braves Divide Games

Laurila Stops Fremont, 7-0 In Nightcap; Club At Home Today.

IN AN EFFORT to wind up the 1940 Ohio State league season with a full schedule, the Mansfield Braves face a holiday week-end calling for seven games in four days.

First of these contests were played at Fremont last night when the Braves split a doubleheader with the Green Sox. The Braves meet the Green Sox in another doubleheader at the Fairground tonight, travel to Findlay Sunday to engage the Oilers in a single contest, and return home for a Labor day doubleheader with Fremont Monday.

The first game tonight is scheduled for 7 o'clock, and admission for the twin bill will be 20 cents, officials of the club announced today.

The Braves shut out the Green Sox in the second half of the twin bill last night 7 to 0, after dropping the opener 4 to 3. George Laurila, on the mound for the Braves in the second tilt, allowed the Green Sox only five hits, all singles, while the Braves collected 10 safeties off the pitching of Stanther.

Four runs, enough to win the game, were pushed across the plate by the Braves in the second inning. They added another tally in the third and two more in the seventh frame.

In the opening tilt Fremont came from behind in the fourth inning to tie the Braves 2 and 2. Mansfield added another run in the fifth to take the lead again, but the Green Sox came back in the sixth frame with two more runs, giving them a one-run margin which they were able to hold.

The Green Sox scored their four runs on four hits off the pitching of Tony Drewek, while the Braves collected 10 hits off Heiss. Hal Hundemer led the Braves' batting attack in the opener getting three out of four.

Moose Team Evens Series In Playoffs

Lodge Men Win Last Two Softball Contests.

It may take the Moose Lodge softball team a little while to get started—but once its underway, look out.

* * *

Manager Farrell Hipp's Lodgemen, champions of the Y. M. C. A. Commercial league, dropped two games to the Commercial loop All-Stars and then came back to square the series at 2-all.

* * *

After losing the first two sessions, the Moose won the third, 18 to 6, at the Fairground Thursday night and came back again yesterday to hand the All-Stars a 9 to 3 beating at North Lake park.

The fifth and deciding game of the series will be played Wednesday at 6 p. m. at Liberty park.

With Bob Schaffer holding the All-Stars to four hits, the Moose outfit sent two runs over in the first stanza and added three more in the second to take a lead that was never seriously threatened.

Meanwhile, the All-Stars, after denting the plate once in the opening stanza, were held scoreless until the fifth when they managed to score two more markers.

* * *

The Moose team added a run in the third and three more in the fifth to ice the session. Laipply and Lerner paced the winners at the plate with two hits apiece, while Schaffer, All-Star third baseman, led his teammates with a pair of singles. Mapes of the All-Stars got the only extra-base hit—a double.

* * *

In winning, Thursday night, the Moose pounded over seven tallies in the initial chapter to grab a commanding advantage. The Moose team collected 15 hits off Mike Rachel. All-Star moundsman. Francis Brown, Moose hurler, led his mates with "four for four." The box score of Thursday's game was not turned in until last night.

Indians Add To Advantage In League Race

Jeff's Circuit Clout Comes In First With Two Mates Aboard; Feller Fans 10.

CHICAGO—(AP)—Whooping Indians were throwing soapsuds in the shower room after Cleveland won last night's game from the Chicago White Sox 4 to 2.

Shouted Bob Feller to his room mate, Geoffrey Heath:

"Jeff, that's two games you've won for me on this trip with homers. You know how much I appreciate it."

Said Outfielder Heath:

"About the only hits I'm getting are home runs. But I guess that one off Lefty Lee as worth five hits with the bases empty."

* * *

Heath hit a home run with two mates aboard in the first inning and Feller bore down in the pinches and fanned 10 batters for his 23rd victory.

* * *

The Indians thus gained a half-game on their nearest rivals and lead the league today by two and a half games over Detroit and five over New York.

That set the stage for a battle today between the left-handed Smiths—Al of Cleveland and Ed of Chicago—in the second game of a three-game series.

Outfielder Julius (Moose) Solters hit a Chicago homer in the fourth but went around alone.

* * *

Then Heath went into action again, leading off the sixth with a single, taking second on a sacrifice, moving to third on Ray Mack's scratch single and scoring on a fly.

Rizzuto Out To Win Crown

Slugger Lead Way In AA Batting Race.

CHICAGO—(AP)—If any of the other American association sluggers are going to bat Phil Rizzuto out of the league's batting crown, they will have to do it in the next two weeks. The season ends Sept. 15.

* * *

At least three—Rizzuto's own teammate, Stan Bordagaray, and two Minneapolis clubbers, Ab Wright and Robert Estalella—are considered likely challengers. But then they have been that for the last 10 weeks—the time Rizzuto has been leading the league.

* * *

According to average up to Thursday, each of the three had averages of .318 and were tied for second place, 14 points behind the Kansas City shortstop who boasted a .362.

Other leaders included:

Coaker Triplett, Columbus, .341; Johnny Lucadello, Toledo, .338; Phil Weintraub, Minneapolis, .338; Otto Denning, Minneapolis, .338; Milt Galatzer, Indianapolis, .335; Ted Gullic, Milwaukee, .330.

Rizzuto also maintained his leadership in hits, with 180, and stolen bases, 32. Wright also kept his three top positions intact. He had 23 homers, 127 runs batted in and 309 total bases. Estaiclla's 126 was tops in runs, while Paul Campbell of Louisville led in triples with 14. Harry Walker of Columbus took over first place in doubles by pounding out four over the week to run his total to 37.

Johnny Lindell of Kansas City still headed the pitchers with a record of 16 triumphs and five defeats.

* * *

Again there was no change among the team leaders. Minneapolis increased its batting lead one point to .302. Louisville's fielding mark remained at .976. Sixteen more double plays gave Kansas City a total of 161.

MARKET RALLY FADES; STOCKS RETAIN GAINS

Dealings Quiet After Active Opening; Issues Hold Friday's Advances.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK—The stock market lost some of its rallying exuberance today but, on the whole, retained the major portion of Friday's gains.

Dealings quieted after a fairly active opening and, at the beginning of the final hour, small fractional price changes either way were about even.

Attendance in Wall Street was sparse, many traders getting an early start on their holiday which will run to Tuesday. The exchange will be closed Monday for Labor Day.

Action of yesterday's market was encouraging to those who still maintain confidence in the British to fight off a Nazi invasion.

On the side of market optimists was the federal reserve board summary disclosing the country's department store sales for the week ended Aug. 24 topped the corresponding period of 1939 by 12 per cent, and for the latest four weeks were 8 per cent above a year ago.

Widest year-to-year increases were registered in districts which included Cleveland.

The commerce department added a note of cheer with its estimate placing wholesale activities in July at 10.5 per cent over the 1939 month.

LONDON SHAKEN BY THIRD RAID IN FIVE HOURS

Nazis Crash City Defense In Lightning Assault After Failing Twice.

The attacks were a follow-up for London's worst night raid of the war.

Air-besieged Londoners were cheered by an air ministry announcement that a "strong force of RAF bombers again attacked military objectives in the Berlin area" last night.

The fresh fury of the German attack defied the mounting toll of German planes brought down. Unofficial reports up to 3 p. m. (9 a. m., EST) showed at least 20 bombers and fighters had fallen to British fire aground and in the air.

This total ran considerably ahead of the official count.

About the time that the third alarm sent Londoners hastily to cover, the air ministry announced that "at least six enemy planes were shot down today and one enemy bomber last night."

The ministry acknowledged that three of Britain's fast-rising fighting planes were missing after the morning combat.

The third alarm of the day came at 1:03 p. m. (7:03 a. m. EST) and it was London's 21st alarm since Aug. 18.

Ace German pilots of the "Yellow Nose" squadron of Messerschmitt fighters were reported routed in a great battle over a southeast coast town after what the British called "suicidal" attacks on balloons.

Two formations of Nazi bombers under fighter plane escort swept over the southeast coast this morning, with about a dozen bombers and 20 fighters in the first flight and additional bombers and 30 Messerschmitts in the second.

RAF fighters roared into action, and early reports on the battle said nine Nazi craft out of a squadron of 30 bombers and fighters were shot down.

German Messerschmitt fighters shot down several barrage balloons at a southeast town. One of the raiders was reported to have plunged into the sea when struck by rifle fire from a ground crew.

Four more German planes later were shot down in another encounter with British fighters.

Observers estimated that several hundred German planes, flying with the sun at their backs, crossed the south coast at a height of 20,000 feet during the morning, apparently heading for London. Anti-aircraft batteries and British fighter planes met them.

This morning's raid came as thousands of Londoners were on their way to work. Trains maintained uninterrupted service and street traffic was undiminished.

Newspaper estimates of the number of German planes engaged in the daylight and night attacks which carried over until just before dawn ranged between 600 and 1,500. The News-Chronicle headlined "Biggest Air Attack on London." While one German night raider was reported shot down in a suburb, the sketch proclaimed "Bombers Crash In London Streets."

A government communique this morning acknowledged "some" casualties in what it labelled "haphazard" dropping of high explosive and incendiary bombs, and also admitted damage to houses and buildings in residential districts.

It said a "considerable" number of planes took part in the attack.

Expect Bloodiest Week-end of War

By H. R. KNICKERBOCKER
(INS Staff Correspondent)

LONDON—The warring powers expect that this may be the bloodiest week-end of the war.

London today is suffering because of Chancellor Hitler's unbridled anger, according to British quarters.

His personal rage over the R. A. F. attacks on Berlin, it is held here, is responsible for the Luftwaffe's repeated assaults last night and today upon London, which they certainly have bruised but not yet seriously damaged.

Both Hitler and Air Marshal Hermann Wilhelm Goering had publicly promised the Berlin population that they would never be bombed because German fighting planes and anti-aircraft guns would pulverize the enemy long before it could reach the German capital.

The R. A. F.'s persistent and successful blows at Berlin came therefore as one of the most painful surprises of the war to the Nazi leaders.

During the week now ending the war has passed into a new phase. This became recognizable today as one of total destruction by both belligerents, and from now on it is due to be marked by a savagery hitherto unparalleled.

Air raids upon each other's capitals by British and Germans are of ever increasing frequency and ferocity, and now for the first time the world may witness an attempt to bring about the long-predicted obliteration of some of the principal centers of western civilization.

Nazi Fliers Drop 5,000,000 Bombs

BERLIN—(INS)—In 220 days of "blitz" war, the German air force has rained more than five million bombs aggregating 75,000 tons in 3,500 reparate raids on enemy territory, an official summary disclosed today.

Reviewing developments in the light of the approaching first anniversary of Europe's conflict, statistics issued by the propaganda ministry said that Germany had occupied seven countries, wiped out fighting armies totalling 9,000,000 men and "broke British might on the continent."

"Now," the statement said, "England for the first time in 900 years is confronted by the grave threat of invasion."
